

About Sandii Manumele Laniākea Suzuki

Sandii lived in Hawai'i during her late teens and most of her 20s. In that period, she sang in clubs and studied hula with Aunty Bella Richards of Kailua. She also met and bonded with Pattye Kealohalani Wright, who later became a Kumu Hula through Aunty Lani Kalama (1990).

In 1999, Sandii requested the traditional hula training from Pattye to take her toward Kumu Hula. Her 2001 'ūniki as 'ōlapa was documented on 'Ōlelo in a show called Listen to the Wind. She became ho'opa'a in 2003. In 2005, she received her final 'ūniki as full Kumu Hula. A photo from that day is attached below.

Sandii's recording career is documented on her website: www.sandii.info

At the top, click on Visual Discography. The various pages represent the many different musical phases of her recording career. She has recorded as Sandi Ai, Sandy Hohn, Sandii & the Sunsetz, and now as Sandii. Since 1996, her albums have been Hawaiian or Polynesian-themed.
